We've come a long way in one year. "We", meaning the Horseman's Herald, including you, the readers; the advertisers; our directors and staff. Now that we are getting our grip on the second season, let's do a little focusing on what may be in the future.

If this little jewel of a magazine even meets its fame how will it come about? Or, what appearance will it have? There are many cross roads ahead. One, we could become strictly a news journal publishing the past and coming events. There could be feature articles and articles from top trainers the same as the present leading horse magazines. But there could be more.

We could become strictly a journal printing pictures of people and their horses at home and at shows. In this type magazine, pictures and short identification are in the magazine. These are big sellers in some breeds where extreme refinement and perfection is emphasized. This is definitely a possibility.

Also, and which is ranking high in my personal standing, we could become the official publication of several or many horse and horsemen associations. Each association could have their own section and their own inside cover.

From the Editor...

If your association wanted only showbills and results it would be your say so. If they wanted mostly pictures, fine. With a subscription to this type journal you would be in the know in your own association and also learning who's who and what the other groups are doing. An advertisement here would really make the rounds.

I believe you would be surprised how easily a section could be obtained and maintained. There is a monetary value but not what you might expect. A little advertising would pay for it. The only difficult job is finding someone responsible for having all material gathered and mailed in on time. Still this can be done. Many are willing and would enjoy the job. It's possible it might need to be an elected office. This style of publication could very well materialize.

What else could we do? Well, as advertising and subscriptions pick up more finances would be available to improve its appearance. Believe me, it's miraculous what we're doing now on our limited budget, thanks to our good printer in Lewis, Kansas and the talents of our staff. None of us claim to be the best but the very best have marveled at what we've done.

If, by the way, you are still wondering how far we've come—slightly over a year ago this or anything like it wasn't available. Thank You sincerely.

Horse Killed at Valley Downs

MEDORA — A two-year old thoroughbred colt, Bonna Sue, was killed here Sunday in races at Hidden Valley Downs.

The colt, owned by Glen Stensaaas of Concordia fell or ran into the rail after finishing the final race of the afternoon. She had been giving jockey Floyd Terrell of Wichita trouble since the last curve of the race.

She died directly in front of a near-full house of fans.

Ron Stull, Hutchinson, track announcer, said he saw Bonna Sue come around the final turn and begin to "run sideways down the track."

"The jockey kept trying to pull her back straight," Stull said, "but just after she crossed the finish line, she just veered into the wooden rail. The rail broke, and as the horse stumbled, a raw end of it ran through her. I'm sure she died instantly, although she kept on her feet another 25 or 30 yards."

Terrell, who wasn't injured in the mishap, bailed out just as Bonna Sue touched the railing.

Track Owner Bill Rowland, said

the rail segment "entered through the front left of the horse's chest and exited the body through the opposite flank."

All present agreed that the mishap was the fault of the horse, which seemed to go "sort of wild" in the final yards.

Rowland said he and the owner had gone over the track and found no trace of anything that might have scared the horse or caused it to stumble out of the track.

He added that it was somewhat unusual that the railing should have stabbed the horse, and said the entire incident was somewhat of a freak.

The fact of a wooden rail, Stull said, may have saved the jockey's life. "I've seen some horses run into a pipe or metal railing, and that just flips both horse and rider right there."

"It was horrible as it was, but it might have been much, much worse."

Stull and Rowland said the track is working on plans to avoid trouble should another horse hit the rail in the future.

NEWSLETTER

The Spring Kick-Off was a great success. Some of the information will be passed on to you.

By now you should have received the following items in the mail: 10 rule books, (extras 10 cents each); individual entry cards for your coming shows; a copy, or sample of the State Show and its events; a list of clubs April 1, and a new judges list.

Jon Vogelgesang of Garden City has resigned and asked that Spohn Owens of Leoti to be his replacement until election time in Nov. This was accepted by the Board at the April meeting—so on your Board of Directors list please place this—Spohn Owens, Route 2 Leoti, Kansas 67861, Ph. FR 5-2381.

Some clubs have already sent their donation for the trophies. The amount decided is $10. The publicity committee will publicize your gift. Please send your check for $10 to this office, along with your club name.

The Chisholm Trail Club is completing their arena and installing lights. Some of their money was raised by a town-team basketball game and a garage sale.

Helen Boyd of the Offerie Saddle Club passed away in December of 1966. Mary Dixon writes that Helen gave her body to the K.U. Medical Center. Helen was a very active member and will be missed by many.

On the starting line with Debbie.

DEBBIE GOBLE, KWA Circle 6 Saddle Club, Hutchinson, Kansas demonstrates how it's done. Debbie competes in the 10-13 age group and is a top contender. Not only are her parents proud of her but she is admired in her own age group as well as by many senior contestants for her fine sportsmanship.

Around the turn.

Mom, Mary Goble, hard to beat.

Across the finish line.

Debbie accepts treasured award.

EQUINE HEALTHSENSE

By Roy C. Russell, DVM

Eighty percent of equine lameness can be traced directly or indirectly to the foot. Since unbalanced or crooked feet alter the shape and relationship of the developing bones in the lower legs of foals, the time to start attending to a horse's feet is while the animal is still sucking. When a horse reaches 2 years of age there is not much that can be done to straighten a leg because the bones have lost most of their plasticity. To function properly, a foot must have a certain amount of elasticity in the wall and sole. Moisture is the key to this flexibility. In the normal hoof, the wall contains about 25 percent water, the sole about 33 percent and the frog 50 percent. Horses confined in dry stables and stalls have a tendency to develop dry feet. Proper exercise, however, will increase circulation and maintain hoof moisture. A horse, due to the fact that the foot also acts as an auxiliary blood pump, should be brought to work gradually to allow the foot to take up its circulatory function efficiently.

A normal healthy hoof wall is covered with a wax-like coating which prevents the evaporation of moisture from the hoof wall. If the wall coating has been rasped off or scraped off, the wall will tend to dry out, get hard and brittle thus lose its natural elasticity, and lameness is more prone to be evident. If this covering or periople is damaged, hoof dressing should be applied.

Excessive soaking of the feet tends to macerate and remove the periople. Wet packs should be placed on the bottom of the feet since most of the water is absorbed through the horny tubules from the ground surface of the wall. Feet should be cleaned and trimmed regularly. An accumulation of manure or dirt in the hoof, accompanied by lack of frog pressure, will possibly result in thrush. A normal hoof will grow at the rate of $\frac{1}{8}$ inch per month, hence most horses should have their feet trimmed at 4-6 week intervals. Trimming should be started early in life, at about 1 month of age.

Knowledge of the anatomy of the foot is necessary to appreciate the importance of frog pressure, hoof elasticity, and hoof moisturization to proper foot circulation and absorption of concussion in the prevention of lameness. Even the best of shoeing injures a foot, and distortion by faulty trimming or shoeing often results in lameness. A veterinarian's knowledge of the anatomy and physiology of the horse's foot qualifies him to be critical of a poor job of shoeing and complimentary of a good job.

Shoeing is a necessary evil; it does not make walking easier, nor does it improve agility, minimize shock or reduce concussion. Nail holes made in attaching the shoe tend to weaken the wall of the hoof and provide entry for infection. Shoes that are worn too long transfer excessive strain to flexor tendons, or may cause nail prick or corns. Still there are legitimate reasons for shoeing. Shoes protect the hoof, provide better traction, correct defects in stance and movement and afford relief from the pain of injury.

AT CIRCLE SIX MEET

The first horse show in Hutchinson was held Sunday, April 30, at the Circle Six Saddle Club grounds northeast of Hutchinson.

The show went along smoothly, despite gusty winds, which somewhat hampered the 125 entries from 15 Kansas Clubs.

A prize was given to the youngest rider, five-year old Justin Smith, Lincoln, and the oldest, Mr. Don Ruby "over 60" also of Lincoln.

CHANGE ADDRESS:

We have moved from Lincoln, Kansas to Abilene Kansas. Harold has gone to work for the Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company. Hope to see everyone at the shows this summer. Our new address is Harold E. Smith 509 N. Spruce, Abilene, Kansas 67410.

LEOTI ROUGH RIDERS

The Leoti Rough Riders are happy to report that they now have 137 members and are hopeful of gaining more before the season gets into full swing.

The club has had one trail ride held April 2 and a fun day which was April 23rd. Another trail ride is being planned for July.

May 7th the club was invited to Russell Springs to participate in a trail ride over the old "Butterfield" stage line trail. They rode 6 miles and then a pot luck dinner was served. After dinner they rode 8 more miles. Both stopping places used to be old stage coach stops. There were 7 teams including a stage coach for the ones not caring to ride. A very enjoyable day was reported by everyone who attended.

The club is busy now making preparations for their show which is June 18th.
